E-tailers look to woo the next 200 million

In sum, Pahwa believes there will be a far greater use of the 4Vs - voice, vernacular, visual and video.

Anurag Mathur, partner, PWC, points out local brands could be a lot more in demand. That would require e-commerce platforms to onboard more local vendors and enable and equip them to sell better. Also, electronic gadgets, which typically account for the bulk of the merchandise, might need to yield space to apparel, fashion products and e-vegetables.

catchment of consumers that continues to browse on the net and buy in the stores. Deeper collaboration with brands and local manufacturers will help companies create demand as they are typically aware of customers' consumption and purchasing patterns. With many more e-commerce platforms coming up to join the Amazon's and Flipkart's, experts say it's possible to build the catchment of the next 200 million e-shoppers in a much shorter time than the several years it took to build the universe of 300 million. But as PWC's Mathur points out, much will depend on how well players manage the logistics and how soon vendors are trained to get on to the platform.

Spectrum auction: Telcos may bid conservatively

Bharti Airtel may not renew all that is expiring this year but is likely to buy new spectrum in some 4G bands, while Vodafone Idea may buy some new spectrum but is unlikely to renew what is expiring.

Also, none of the operators are going to bid for the premium 4G spectrum in the 700 MHz band because of the high reserve price. This means that for the second time - the first time this band was put up for auction was in 2016 - there would be no takers for this band.

Reliance Jio needs to renew the biggest chunk of its spectrum - its 81.25 MHz in 800 MHz band, which is used for providing 4G services, is expiring later this year. So, it is sure to bid for enough spectrum in this band as it needs to have 10 MHz in every circle. In addition, it is likely to buy additional spectrum in 1800 MHz and 2300 MHz band in

An Omni channel strategy could be equally important. EY's Pahwa says the route to market for the next 200 could be different with an omni channel piece a big part of the strategy. Indeed, there is a fairly large order to build a portfolio of 10 MHz and 40 MHz, respectively. With this strategy, Jio will end up expanding its 4G spectrum from the existing 23.4 MHz to 40.82 MHz - a 74.4% increase.

The company's total outflow is likely to be ₹57,790 crore at the reserve price. Since operators have the option of paying 25% of the total amount bid for spectrum below 1 GHz like 800 MHz and 900 MHz, and 50% of the total amount bid for spectrum above 1 GHz like 2,300 MHz, 2,500 MHz; its upfront payment could be around ₹28,895 crore.

In the case of Bharti Airtel, a total of 57.60 MHz is expiring later this year, of which bulk 51.40 MHz is in 1800 MHz and 6.20 MHz is in the 900 MHz band.

The company is likely to go for spectrum in 900 MHz to complete a block of 5/10 MHz in every circle. Also, it is likely to try to take additional spectrum in 1800 MHz (to complete 15 MHz), 2100 MHz (to complete 10 MHz), and 2300 MHz band (to complete 40 MHz).

Its total outflow is likely to be ₹25,000 crore at the reserve price and if it pays 50% of the amount upfront, its immediate outflow will be approximately ₹12,500 crore.

For Vodafone Idea, a total 51.05 MHz spectrum is expiring, of which again bulk of 51.05 MHz is in 1800 MHz while 6.20 MHz falls in the 900 MHz band.

It is likely to opt for spectrum in 900 MHz to complete a block of 5 MHz in every circle.

Also, it may try to take additional spectrum in 1800 (to complete 10 MHz), 2100 (to complete 10 MHz) and 2500 MHz band (to complete 20 MHz).

Its total outflow is thus likely to be ₹3,500 crore at the reserve price. At the 50% upfront payment, its immediate outflow is likely to be approximately ₹1,750 crore.
